DEEDS OF CRIME IN WASHINGTON

Com. Brownlow and Major Pullman Declare Police Investigation Would Be Welcome.

Emphatically denying charges that the National Capital ranks as the lawless city in the United States, District Commissioner Louis Brownlow and Major Raymond W. Pullman, chief of police, say they would welcome a Congressional investigation of the department from administrative heads down.

Since the war, "every man in the Police Department, from Major Pullman down, worked day and night with enthusiasm to keep down crime."

War Workers Unmolested. "There were at least 50,000 women war workers in Washington. Many of these young women came from other cities and the country. Because of crowded conditions in the city many of them had to spend much time on the streets downtown and other places for recreation. We have policemen and policewomen scattered about, and we had but little reports of trouble."

That the present force of police should be augmented by at least 100 men is the opinion of both Commissioner Brownlow and Major Pullman. Both officials are strongly in favor of an increase in salaries.

"Take Bridgeport, Conn., for instance," said Major Pullman. "Policemen in that city start at $1,750 a year and are promoted to $1,800 a year; Baltimore, $1,800; Detroit, $1,800; and Jersey City, $1,800."

But, the police said, while these cities pay big money—or rather a living wage, they are able to get good men to join the force. Nevertheless, it was said, crime rates appear in these cities as well as they do here.

It was pointed out in Washington during the past fiscal year there were thirty-seven murders, two of them being triple murders, while ten years ago there were thirty murders in the Capital.

There is now a shortage of police, the department's complement lacking about forty men. However, it was said that the soldiers who quit the department for military duty are returning to their jobs. More than 100 members of the force, however, quit their jobs outright, it was said, because they could get better wages in other fields than the police department.

THE REAL MONDAY FOR PARKERS

A "memorial day" in honor of the fifty-two soldiers from Prince Georges county who gave their lives for the country will be held at Chesapeake Beach Monday. Many returned soldiers from overseas and their families, together with citizens of Prince Georges county, will attend the exercises. The "memorial day" will take the form of an outing for the children and the final drive in the campaign among the "grow-ups" for subscribing funds to erect the "sacrifice cross" at Bladensburg, Md., in memory of the county's dead.

This cross, which is to be the largest of its kind in the world, has been planned by P. G. Cooper, an architect, who donated the plans and specifications. It will be forty feet high, made of Portland cement, and erected at the head of the National Highway, from Bladensburg to Annapolis. Work upon the monument is expected to begin about the middle of next month. John R. Riggs is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the memorial day exercises.

WAR DEPT. FIXES ARMY FOOD PRICES

The War Department has announced the prices at which surplus army food will be sold to the public. The prices set, it was said, average about 50 per cent of what the department paid for the food. They represent to the consumer a saving of approximately 25 per cent on corned beef and roast beef and a saving of nearly 50 per cent on bacon.

The prices are:
Corned beef, No. 1, canned, $2.00 a dozen; corned beef, No. 2, canned, $1.75 a dozen; corned beef, 6-pound cans, $24 a dozen.
Roast beef, No. 1, canned, $3.45 a dozen; 1-pound cans, $4.52 a dozen; 2-pound cans, $7.92 a dozen, and 6-pound cans, $26.40 per dozen.
Corned beef hash, 1-pound cans, $2.75 per dozen; 2-pound cans, $4.50 per dozen.
Bacon in crates, 34 cents per pound; bacon, in 12-pound tins, 36 cents per pound.

ARREST UNIFORMED MAN ON INTOXICATION CHARGE

Roger Funk, of 5420 Conduit road northwest, clad in a soldier's uniform and wearing a police badge, was arrested near Georgia avenue and Euclid street last night on charges of intoxication by Policeman J. C. Bogart, of the Tenth precinct.

Complaints had been received about the man at the Tenth precinct. These resulted in his arrest.

Funk says that he is employed by the Government as a guard. The police will question him further today. The badge Funk wore was such as is worn by night watchmen.

PRIVATE J. F. DIGGES KILLED IN BATTLE

"Missing in action," has been erased from the War Department casualty list with regard to Private J. Forsyth Digges, of 1802 Belmont road northwest. In its place the entry, "Killed in action," has been made, it was announced today.

Private Digges was cited for heroism by Major General Bundy, of the Second Division, during the Chateau-Thierry drive. One day, at another front, he was called on to repair telephone communications, which had been slashed by the artillery of the enemy. He was the lone target of the German big guns, and a shell killed him.

Private Digges was six feet two inches tall and weighed more than 200 pounds. He was twenty years old and was noted for his athletic prowess at St. John's College and St. Mary's College. He served with the District National Guard at the Mexican border.

250 MOTHERS AND BABES FOR CAMPS

Two hundred and fifty mothers and their children have been invited to the second outing at Camp Good Will and Camp Pleasant by the Associated Charities. They will leave the city for the camps this week, after an examination by Joseph A. Murphy, medical officer of the public schools.

Several organizations are planning to entertain the mothers and children this week with games and amusements, among them being a committee from the navy yard, which made its entertainments a feature of the last camp.

Last night the Camp Good Will children held an entertainment with games and folk dances. The arrangements were made by Misses Clara and Sarah Ginsberg and Miss Dorothy Beard.

At the Zoo yesterday Dedjasmach Nido, head of the Abyssinian maulion now in Washington, demonstrated his familiarity with reptiles by calmly taking in his hands as much of the Zoo's largest constrictor as he could make speed to get more men to help overturn the army truck.

How many men were pinned under the truck at the time it crashed over the bridge, Sergeant Da Shiell said was not known, and he thought by making speed he might save the lives of the men pinned beneath it.

Officers to Protest. The warrant on which the military policeman was arrested was sworn out the morning. Officers of the military police were indignant when informed of the man's arrest. The officers will make a protest against the arrest of the enlisted man, Lieutenant Pierce declared.

Leutenant Pierce had charge of the men who rescued eleven injured soldiers from the creek. They went over the truck at the time it crashed over the bridge. The men who rode down to the creek to see the spectacle were taken unawares when the military police ordered all hands at the point of a gun to fall to and help in the work of rescue. Men waded into the creek and turned the truck over, uncovering the victims of the accident.

WAR RISK SETS RECORD IN SENDING BLANKS TO TRUCK VICTIMS' BENEFICIARIES

A record has been established by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance by forwarding claim blanks to the beneficiaries of four of the men killed in the accident near Camp Humphreys yesterday morning within sixteen hours after their death.

Blankets were in the mail by 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Capt. Carl A. Heilmann, of 1265 Forty-fifth street, Brooklyn, N. Y., Capt. Charles G. Johnston, of 2441 D Street, Bronx, N. ARMY TRUCK DEATH DIVE REPORT READY

Army Board Expected to Clear All Concerned in Fatal Collision Near Alexandria.

Having examined all witnesses connected with the automobile accident yesterday which resulted in the death of two officers, three enlisted men and a civilian camp employee near Alexandria, Va., the board of officers named by Gen. C. E. F. Flieger will submit a report tomorrow fixing the blame, if any. The report will be sent to the adjutant general of the army.

The findings of the board, it is stated, will not be made public until after the approval of General Flieger, commanding Camp Humphreys, but it has been intimated the board will arrive at the conclusion that the accident was unavoidable, and the soldiers met their death "in the line of duty."

Relatives of the dead men have been heard from, it was stated today, and camp authorities have been notified where the bodies are to be sent. Friends and relatives are expected to arrive in Alexandria today to take charge of the bodies.

Turner Is Recovering. Private Ernest Turner, who sustained a fractured hip in the accident, has been removed from the Alexandria hospital to the base hospital at Camp Humphreys. He is reported doing well and is expected to recover soon.

As a result of the board's findings the driver of the automobile truck in which the party of soldiers was returning to the camp from Alexandria, was released from prison at the camp. The military authorities are still holding the driver of the military police truck.

The military police patrol passed the auto truck bearing the officers and enlisted men almost as the end of a climax yesterday afternoon when Sgt. Sydney A. Da Shiell, Lieutenant Pierce's driver, at 4200 for firing a pistol in the city limits.

Da Shiell told the court that he raced in his officer's car for help as soon as the military police arrived. He said in the excitement his pistol was discharged, but it was in an attempt to clear the road so he could make speed to get more men to help overturn the army truck.

How many men were pinned under the truck at the time it crashed over the bridge, Sergeant Da Shiell said was not known, and he thought by making speed he might save the lives of the men pinned beneath it.

Macfarland Sees Loss For District If Congress Abolishes 50-50 Plan

Henry B. F. Macfarland, chairman of the joint taxpayers' committee on fiscal relation between the United States and the District of Columbia, takes issue with Congressman Charles R. Davis of Minnesota that the District would fare better at the hands of Congress with the half-and-half plan abolished.

Mr. Davis is chairman of the District subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee. In an interview with The Times, he said that abolition of the half-and-half plan, as provided in a bill introduced in the House by Chairman Carl E. Mares, of the House District Committee, would work to the advantage of the District.

It was predicted by Mr. Davis that the District appropriation next year would be at least $17,000,000, against the $15,000,000 appropriation allowed by the Congress last week.

"If Mr. Davis were Congress, doubtless $17,000,000 would be appropriated," says Mr. Macfarland. "Even that would not be enough to meet the District's needs, which for next year will be over $50,000,000, and which ought to be doubled with an equal amount from the United States Treasury to meet the actual needs for the maintenance and extraordinary improvements."

Not Entire Congress. "Unfortunately, Mr. Davis is not the entire Congress, and even if he were he could not guarantee adequate appropriations for all the years to come. The taxpayers who took part in the preparation of the organic act of 1878, men like Allison, Thurman, Bayard, Garfield, Windom, Hunt, Poland and Blackburn, saw a clear and emphasized need for the maintenance and extraordinary improvements."

"Those who desire to cut down the Government contribution do more, not less, for the Capital of which it is so proud, and which it wants to make the best in the world."

Kicks From 'Back Home' Spur Senate in Probe Of High Living Cost

Growing indignation at steady rises in prices and warnings of greater increases to come are reaching official ears in Washington. Concern over the situation was shown here in the mail reaching Senators and Congressmen is liberally sprinkled with complaints from "back home."

Investigation of alleged profiteering by retailers in Washington and possibly in other cities will begin Monday, Senator Sherman, Illinois, chairman of the Senate District of Columbia Committee, announced.

The first sign that officials here are beginning to act to relieve the food situation came in announcement from the War Department that stores of surplus bacon, canned roast beef and canned vegetables will be sold through cities at prices 25 to 50 per cent under market prices.

To facilitate wide distribution of these stores, cities will be allowed ten days' credit on purchases. They must promise to resell at cost adding only transportation expenses.

This action resulted from general criticism of the department's previously announced plan to sell these surplus stores, valued at $121,000,000, abroad. Congressional criticism has been strong against the War Department for failure to place these foodstuffs on the market last February. Chief of Staff March declared the delay was inexcusable.

U. S. WOOL INDUSTRY BECOMING MORE ACTIVE

An increase in the amount of wool machinery in operation June 1, 1919, as compared with May 1, is shown by the active and idle wool machinery report just issued by the Bureau of Markets, Department of Agriculture. The largest increase in active machinery was in the case of worsted combs, which show a gain of about 10 per cent, while worsted spindles gained about 5 per cent and wide looms 7 per cent, compared with May. More machines were reported working on double shift than in any other month of this year.

Machinery in operation June 1 of this year, by groups in percentage: wide looms, 70.4; narrow looms, 73.4; carpet and rug looms, 55.5; woolen cards, 84.6; worsted combs, 87.2; woolen spindles, 84.8, and worsted spindles, 78.9.

A feature of the outing to Great Falls held yesterday afternoon by the members of the Missouri Society was the distribution of "Missouri meerschaums" by Congressman W. L. Congressman Nelson hails from the Booneville, Missouri, district, the world's greatest pipe manufacturing center.

COMBAT AT MAPARK MASSAILANT HUNT

A false report caused police reserves and headquarters men to be sent to Takoma Park last night, where it was said another woman had been attacked by a negro. It was later found that a woman living in the neighborhood had been passing down a lonely road when she heard a rustle in the bushes. Without investigating, she screamed for help.

The woods which surround the Silgo branch were searched. Deputy Sheriff Charles Farrar called to Washington for help. When the cause of the report was ascertained, the police were convinced there was no basis in the belief that an assault was attempted.

Though nearly 200 suspects have been questioned and examined by Inspector Clifford Grant, he said today that the police are no nearer to a solution of the crime than they were a week ago.

Miss Saunders Returns Home. Miss Mary Saunders, one of the negro's victims, is at her home. She left Georgetown Hospital yesterday.

Policewomen were detailed yesterday afternoon to lure the negro to arrest should he put in an appearance. Armed with revolvers, the women were ordered to stroll through the paths of the woodlands in the hope that the much sought negro would appear in his appearance and to capture him should he make any advances.

But the negro was not seen, and he still is at large. As it was believed he might again make his appearance to renew his attacks, police officials felt that policemen would be a big aid in capturing him.

That the negro realizes that a dragnet has been thrown out for his capture and that he is shrewd enough not to return to the scene of his past assaults is the theory advanced by some detectives.

200 In Man Hunt. But regardless of this theory, with the possibility that the negro has left the city, the police were determined to search the suburbs again yesterday afternoon. More than 200 policemen, detectives and policewomen were scattered through the suburban section. Railroad depots and roads leading out of the District were carefully under guard.

Many negroes were stopped, questioned and later released when given a good account of themselves. Every clue the police got was run out, but nothing tangible was got against any of the suspects.

Only two negroes are being held by the police. One of them, Lewis Randall, alias Reynolds, is being held at Third precinct police station. Two of the women attacked may be released, but the police are determined they would make no positive identification. The negro protests his innocence.

Washington real estate dealers who say the existence of any conspiracy to increase rents upon the expiration of the Sanitary anti- eviction law, likewise will have ample opportunity to make their case known before the investigators. Then, too, District residents who say they can furnish proof that they have been served with notice to vacate, will be increased, will be permitted to voice their opinions.

If a combination exists, Senator Sherman says he intends to locate it; failing to locate it, the committee at least expects to find the reasons for the increased cost of living in the District, which he declares is out of all proportions as compared with increased prices in other nearby cities.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR HOWARD UNIVERSITY

Plans for "A greater Howard University" were discussed last night at a meeting of the Howard Alumni Association, held in the assembly room of the Public Library. Isaac H. Publicity, reception, and entertainment committees were appointed.

Dr. Emmett J. Scott, secretary and treasurer of the association, stated that the formal inauguration of J. Stanley Durkee, newly elected president of Howard, will be held here November 12. The day following the inauguration and reconstruction of colored universities in the country. Delegates from all the leading universities of the United States are expected to be present.

BELIEVE FOOD PRICES DUE TO CONSPIRACY

Confident that the era of high profits in Washington from food prices and rents is traceable directly to a combination of real estate dealers and food producers, the Senate District Committee is going to try to "bust" that combination if a legislative way can be found.

When the committee meets tomorrow afternoon at the call of Chairman Sherman, it will be ready to submit to the Senate a resolution giving blanket authority to go ahead in its investigation of the high cost of living as far as the trail leads.

Whether this trail will lead up to a blind alley or whether it will lead to the door of the "conspiracy chamber," the committee is not certain. Believing they have nothing less than a conspiracy to boost the living cost in the District, the committee is prepared to go the limit in hunting down the supposed conspirators.

Not only does the committee claim that food prices are higher in Washington than in any other large city in the United States, but they assert further that they will back up the claim with indisputable figures. During the agitation of the question, Government bureaus and local organizations have been hard at work gathering a mass of data that will be turned loose when the investigation actually begins.

While the investigation primarily will deal with food prices and rents, it is possible the whole category of commodities will be brought into the limelight before it is ended. Senator Sherman intends to follow up every by-path that promises results.

Members of the committee believe that Congress is empowered to legislate, if found necessary, to prevent prices from soaring any higher than they now are. They believe that a "half-measure" in the way of price controls, no results, and that residents of the District are not content to let the question rest until Congress takes some definite action.

All as soon as the Senate adopts the resolution, which will meet no opposition, it is believed, Senator Sherman will designate a subcommittee with instructions to "speed up" the investigation.

To Hear Everybody. Witnesses will be given every opportunity to appear before the committee. Wholesale dealers, retailers, jobbers all will be invited to state their case. On the other hand, the consumer who buys directly from the city markets for the home table will play an important part in the investigation.

Washington real estate dealers who say the existence of any conspiracy to increase rents upon the expiration of the Sanitary anti- eviction law, likewise will have ample opportunity to make their case known before the investigators. Then, too, District residents who say they can furnish proof that they have been served with notice to vacate, will be increased, will be permitted to voice their opinions.
